Levels of Strategy

Business-Level Competitive Strategies

- A strategic business unit (SBU) is designed to maximize operational efficiency and has four key characteristics
  - 1. Cost Leadership Strategy
  - Achieving the lowest production and operational costs.
  - 2. Differentiation Strategy
  - Creating a unique product or service.
  - 3. Focus Strategy
  - Targeting a specific market niche.

Business-Level Strategy Framework

A company can approach business strategy from two perspectives

- 1. Cost Leadership Approach
- Focused on reducing production costs.
- 2. Differentiation Approach
- Emphasizing uniqueness in products or services.
- 3. Broad Market Approach
- Competing in a wide market.
- 4. Niche Market Approach
- Catering to a specialized customer segment.

Strategic Business Unit (SBU)

		มุมมองด้านต้นทุน	มุมมองด้านความแตกต่าง
	มุมมองตลาดกว้าง	มุ่งเน้นความเป็นผู้นำด้านต้นทุน (Cost Leadership)	มุ่งเน้นความเป็นผู้นำด้านความแตกต่าง (Differentiation)
มุมมองตลาดแคบ			มุ่งเน้นการตอบสนองตลาดเฉพาะส่วน (Niche Market or focus group)

Cost Leadership Strategy

This strategy emphasizes achieving a competitive advantage through lower production and operational costs.

- 1. Marketing Strategy
- Standardized products, price competitiveness, extensive distribution, and high sales volume.
- 2. Key Advantages
- Protects against price wars, increases profitability, deters competition, and allows price competition with substitutes.
- 3. Potential Drawbacks
- Technological advancements from competitors, ability to copy cost-cutting methods, and outsourcing to low-cost regions.

Differentiation Strategy

This strategy focuses on making products and services unique, allowing businesses to charge premium prices.

- 1. Marketing Strategy
- Emphasizes product uniqueness, high-quality perception, and
- strong branding.
- 2. Key Advantages
- Reduces price competition, builds customer loyalty, and creates a distinctive brand image.
- 3. Potential Drawbacks
- Difficult to maintain high prices, risk of imitation, and high production costs.

Focus Strategy (Niche Market Strategy)

A niche market strategy targets a specific customer group, emphasizing specialization.

- 1. Marketing Strategy
- Highly tailored products, strong brand positioning, limited distribution, and premium pricing.
- 2. Key Advantages
- Creates strong customer loyalty, differentiates from mass-market competitors.
- 3. Potential Drawbacks
- Small market size, risk of major competitors entering, and challenges in scaling up.
